

Submission of the Abstract of Disclosure:

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention refers to a method of producing innerspring mattress units made of springs encapsulated in a woven or non woven sheet, where the whole row of springs needed for the constructed side of the mattress is produced simultaneously by an equal number to the springs spring coiler machines. The invention also refers to a mattress made of springs encapsulated into pockets.